Masked Bandits Hold Up Train, Seize $55,000

USE MACHINE GUNS NEAR BERKELEY, CAL.

LOOT MAIL AND EXPRESS CAR AT SIDING TWO MILES FROM CITY

ESCAPE FROM SCENE BY AUTOMOBILE, SPEEDING TOWARD OAKLAND

Berkeley, Cal., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Five masked bandits held up the Southern Pacific Stockton flyer with machine guns early today at a siding two miles northeast of here, looted the mail and express car of a payroll believed to have amounted to $55,000 and escaped by automobile toward Oakland.

Word was immediately flashed by telephone to every police force in the East Bay district, and automobile posses from Berkeley, Richmond and other Alameda and Contra Costa counties took up the chase.

Operating with a calm, swift efficiency, the five men stopped the train by placing a tie on the tracks. As the train slowed, one of the men leaped into the cab and ordered the engineer and fireman to hold up their hands, leveling toward them a Thompson sub-machine gun of the type recently reported shipped in large numbers from a New York munitions house to unknown consignees in San Francisco and Oakland.

A second man, also armed with a machine gun, patrolled the right of way outside passenger coaches.

The three others leaped aboard the mail and express car, and while clerks were kept covered with rifles, quickly looted the car.

The train, No. 36, was the same that was held up at McAvoy, near Martinez, a year and a half ago by the Fleagle gang, who escaped with $16,000. It pulled out of Berkeley at 6:58 A. M. and the holdup occurred two minutes later.

GOV. HUEY P. LONG KEEPS AN EYE ON HIS LIEUT. GOVERNOR

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana, who has not left the state for 30 months because he would not allow Lieutenant Governor Paul Cyr, his bitter political enemy, to be governor "even for an hour," has solved the problem of going to St. Louis by deciding to take Cyr with him.

At a meeting of the state board of liquidation yesterday, Long said he would like to attend a meeting of the Mississippi valley flood control committee Thanksgiving week. He eyed Cyr meaningly, and the latter rose to the occasion.

"I'll go with you," the lieutenant governor said.

"I guess you'd better stay with me while we're up there," Long said.

Long intimated yesterday that on the advice of a telegram from Governor Roosevelt of New York he was reconsidering his plan not to take his senate seat until 1932.

GLORIA SWANSON IS DIVORCED FROM MARQUIS HUSBAND

Los Angeles, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—The former Marquise de la Falaise, de la Courdray was just Gloria Swanson, film actress, again today, as the result of an uncontested interlocutory decree of divorce granted her by a Los Angeles court.

Called a day ahead of schedule, Miss Swanson's case was heard and the decree signed within five minutes. She escaped from the court building before newspaper photographers could catch her.

Betraying no emotion, the actress testified that the Marquis Henry la Baillie de la Falaise de la Courdray, known to his Hollywood friends as "Hank," had deserted her and refused to return despite urgent pleadings.

SCHALL GAINS PLURALITY OF OVER 7,500

TABULATION OF PRACTICALLY ALL PRECINCTS IS COMPLETED

VOTE: SCHALL 284,780, HOIDALE 276,272; DEMOCRATS MAY QUESTION LEAD

By HILLIER KRIEGHEBAUM (United Press Staff Correspondent).
St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 7.—Thomas D. Schall, republican, has been re-elected to the United States senate by a plurality of more than 7,500 votes, tabulations of practically all Minnesota precincts showed today.

With less than an average of one precinct per county in the state missing, it appeared Schall had run up a lead of more than 10,000 votes over the high mark for Einar Hoidale, the democratic nominee.

Early Wednesday with most of the Twin City vote recorded and only a few of the rural sections included, the democratic lead had increased to 43,000 votes over Schall. The republican junior senator, a candidate for reelection, however, whittled down the margin until yesterday afternoon, Schall took the lead. With the remaining precincts showing a republican trend, the present senator added to his margin of safety.

The vote stood:
Schall—284,780.
Hoidale—276,272.
Plurality—7,508.

Although democratic leaders would not say definitely whether they planned to demand a recount or a court action under the corrupt practices act, it was certain that some action would be taken to question the lead of Senator Schall.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 7.—Winners in Minnesota "off-year" election Tuesday included:
U. S. Senator—Thomas D. Schall, republican, re-elected.

Governor—Floyd B. Olson, farmer-labor.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

UNITED STATES HAS MUCH TO BE THANKFUL FOR SAYS, PRESIDENT

Washington, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—The United States has much to be thankful for, President Hoover declared today in his annual Thanksgiving proclamation.

This country has suffered far less than other world peoples in existing difficulties, Mr. Hoover stated. It has been made free from discord, peace has been strengthened and progress has been made in arts and sciences, he added.

Fixing Thursday, November 27, as the national day of Thanksgiving, the president called upon the citizens "to remember that many of our people are in need and suffering from causes beyond their control."

The proclamation suggested that "a proper celebration of the day should include that we may be sure that every person in the community, young and old, shall have cause to give thanks for our institutions and for the neighborly sentiment of our people."

DOCTOR CRUSHES HAND AS HE TRIES TO JACK UP CAR

Williston, N. D., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—His right hand crushed by stones he had used to jack up his car, Dr. Herman Wielund, Wildrose, today was recovering from an amputation at the Good Samaritan hospital here.

Physicians found his hand so badly mangled that it was necessary to amputate it a few inches above the wrist. Dr. Wielund was changing tires while on his way to make a call in the country. Stones, which he used to raise the wheel, slipped crushing the hand.

FIND A LIST OF TERRY DRUGGAN BEER CUSTOMERS

RAID CONDUCTED UPON HOTEL SUITE OCCUPIED BY CHICAGO GANGSTER

IN SECRET WALL PANEL POLICE FIND MACHINE GUN, REVOLVERS, AMMUNITION

Chicago, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Police under Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office conducted raids today upon a hotel suite and another apartment occupied by Terry Druggan, gangster.

They found a record which, they said, appeared to be the list of Druggan's beer customers. They found letters indicating he had gang connections from Los Angeles to New York. In a secret panel in the wall they found a machine gun, seven revolvers, and ammunition. They found, also, much liquor, and other guns.

But they didn't find Druggan, who yesterday was "too sick" to appear in Judge John H. Lyle's court, where he was wanted on a charge of being a vagrant and where his $10,000 bond was forfeited because he wasn't there.

The raids on Druggan's apartments were ordered by Judge Lyle, who doubted the story of the gangster's attorney that Druggan was "too sick" to face trial.

'DADDY' OF BOY SCOUTS

"Uncle" Dan Beard (left), 80, National Scout commissioner since the formal organization of the Boy Scouts in 1910, was greeted in Chicago upon his arrival there from New York by E. Urner Goodman (right), Chicago scout executive. Beard told how he first conceived the idea of a Boy Scout organization while a boy in Kentucky and that three years before the movement was organized in England he held his first meeting in New York.

BANDITS FIRE 9 BULLETS AT HER AT CLOSE RANGE

SHOTS REBOUND HARMLESSLY FROM BULLET-PROOF GLASS OF CAGE

SHE THEN STEPS ON BUTTON AND ALARMS VOLUNTEER GUARD OF TOWN

Plainfield, Ill., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Funds of the Plainfield State Bank were saved by Miss Florence Lund when she refused to open the teller's cage of the Plainfield State Bank to three bandits today.

The bandits fired nine bullets at Miss Lund from close range, but they rebounded harmlessly from the bullet-proof glass of the cage.

As the bandit leader fired the first shot, Miss Lund stepped on a button in her cage, sending an alarm to the headquarters of the volunteer town guard.

Eight more shots in quick succession rattled against the glass of Miss Lund's cage when the leader saw her act. Not a mark was left on the glass.

The other two bandits, herding together several bank patrons with revolvers, then called to the leader to "Let's go," and they fled.

Miss Lund's alarm sent the town guard in almost instantaneous pursuit of the bandits' automobile, which was driven away toward Aurora. The guard was established several months ago after the bank had been robbed of $3,000.

"I didn't know how bullet-proof that glass was, but I'm glad my confidence in it was right," Miss Lund said.

SCHOONER BURNS TO WATER'S EDGE

Key West, Fla., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—The four masted American schooner "Rose Mary" of Mobile, Ala., which anchored seven miles off here in distress two days ago, caught fire today and was destroyed.

Her crew of eight men and two women, commanded by Capt. George A. Edden, owner, was rescued by the U. S. naval survey ship "Hannibal."

NURSES LEAP FROM WINDOWS WHILE HOME IS ABLAZE

Brookline, Mass., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Wind-whipped flames raced through the nurses' home atop Corey Hill here today, forcing nurses to leap from windows and imperiling the lives of some 40 patients at nearby Brooks hospital.

Firemen from here, Boston and Newton, handicapped by below-freezing temperature, battled the spectacular blaze for more than an hour and a half before it was controlled.

WIFE CHARGES HUSBAND WITH GREAT CRUELTY

MRS. ELIZABETH SWAVELY DIES FROM BURNS SHE SAID SPOUSE INFLICTED

JERSEY CITY MAN IS CHARGED WITH MURDER AFTER HIS WIFE DIED

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Elizabeth Swavely died in city hospital today from burns which she said were inflicted by her husband, Howard, who wanted to collect $2,000 insurance on her life.

Swavely was charged with murder after his wife died.

He denied the charges. He told police the fire started from a gas heater in their furnished room.

Police at Mrs. Swavely's bedside obtained this statement from her: "I was in bed when my husband came in. He woke me up out of bed and chased me with a lighted paper and said to me 'I got you now.' He put the lighted paper up to my face and set fire to my clothes and I tried to fight him off. After he set fire to me he ran out into the hall and started to call 'fire' but that was a bluff on his part."

"He is up against it and is hungry. He knows I am insured for a couple thousand dollars."

"Did you have any trouble with your husband?" Mrs. Swavely was asked.

"No. When I woke up I saw him with the torch and then he began following me around."

Firemen who extinguished the blaze in the furnished room said Mrs. Swavely was burned from head to foot.

HUGE OIL TANKER IS FAST AGROUND

45 OF CREW VAINLY STRIVE TO RELEASE VESSEL NEAR PIGEON POINT, CALIF.

Pigeon Point, Calif., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—The huge oil tanker Tamiahua was fast aground six miles north of here today while 45 crew members defied a pounding sea in an apparently futile attempt to save the vessel.

Meantime a dense fog blanketed this bleak and rocky section of the coast, 55 miles south of San Francisco.

The lack of visibility handicapped ships cruising the coast in the hope of saving the tanker, one of the largest on the Pacific.

While there was little danger of the crew members losing their lives, it appeared that the tanker was doomed. Lying 200 yards off a pebble beach, but at a spot isolated from coast guard stations and other rescue agencies, the Tamiahua apparently had buried its bow in the sands while the thrashing sea swung its stern to and fro to the mercy of the waves.

Captain Anderson, in command of the tanker, lost his bearings last night enroute south from San Francisco Bay. A thick fog obscured the coast line and while navigating under those difficulties, the tanker suddenly found itself beached north when the course was south and struck almost without warning.

FLYING BOAT DO-X WILL FLY TO CALSHOT, ENGLAND, TOMORROW

Amsterdam, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—The flying boat DO-X will proceed at 10 a. m. Saturday to Calshot in England, enroute to France, Lisbon and the United States, if weather conditions are favorable, it was announced today.

The DO-X will not leave Lisbon for the trans-Atlantic flight before Nov. 16, it was believed by the ship's officers.

Reports from Le Havre that the DO-X would not visit Calshot was discredited.

HOUSE MAY BE RULED BY THE DEMOCRATS

PROBABLE LINE-UP OF 72ND CONGRESS IS PRESENTED TODAY

TECHNICAL CONTROL OF SENATE CONCEDED TO THE REPUBLICANS

New York, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—A deadlock between republicans and democrats in the house of representatives, with a farmer-laborite holding the deciding vote, and republican control of the senate seemed assured by late returns today.

Complete unofficial figures from the last doubtful contest—that for the second congressman at large in Illinois—gave Richard Yates, incumbent republican, more than 10,000 plurality over William H. Dieterich, democrat.

On this basis the house lineup would be:
Republicans, 271; democrats, 217; farmer-labor, 1.

New York, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—A senate controlled by republicans and a house of representatives ruled by the democrats emerged today as the probable line-up of the 72nd congress.

Tardy returns from outlying precincts in the closely contested districts today showed the following distribution of power:

Senate—Republicans, 48; democrats, 47; farmer-labor, 1; doubtful (Kentucky) 1. Necessary for majority, 49.

House—Republicans, 215; democrats 218; farmer-labor, 1; doubtful (Illinois) 1. Necessary for majority, 218.

Because of the closeness of several of the races both in the senate and in the house, this distribution could not be considered today as final, however. There seemed every likelihood that there would be several contests and recounts which might reverse the result of the unofficial returns before the congress convenes.

The outcome of the tabulations in the two races which remained doubtful, however, would not change the general political complexion of the new congress, as judged from the unofficial returns.

Technical control of the senate belonged to the republicans, despite their lack of a majority, because it was not possible for the democrats to emerge with more than 47 votes. It seemed today that the democrat would obtain their 47th in the doubtful Kentucky district, where W. Mills Logan retained a comfortable margin over Senator John M. Robison.

In the house, which had remained a puzzling factor throughout yesterday, the democrats seemed destined to assume command with a slender majority of two votes, possibly three. The one contest still considered doubtful was that in which Walter Resbit, democrat, was leading Richard Yates, republican, for the second Illinois congressman-at-large seat. Republicans claimed the unreported precincts, which are normally republican, would win the contest for Yates.

They also claimed they still had a chance to win the 25th Illinois district seat, but officials said the democratic candidate there should be considered winner unless some irregularity develops.

It appeared, therefore, that the 72nd congress would be divided theoretically. Actually it probably will be controlled by a coalition of democrats and insurgent republicans in both houses and constitute a serious threat to many administration projects during the last two years of President Hoover's term.

Late tallies in Kentucky last night gave the democrats their apparent majority in the house. Announcement that Mrs. Katherine Langley, republican, was trailing her democratic opponent, A. J. May with not enough precincts missing to overturn the result, brought the number of democratic congressional victories in that state to 10.

Two of the closest races in which recounts or contests were certain to occur were in Minnesota and in Indiana. Senator Thomas D. Schall, of the former state, gradually wore down the large early lead of Einar Hoidale, democrat, and finally forged ahead late yesterday. His victory was not accepted as final, however, by the Hoidale forces. Both sides intimated they believed there had been irregularities.

Muncie, Indiana, was the scene of probably the closest contest of the entire election. After a day of checking and re-checking, the election board announced that Claude C. Ball, democrat, had defeated Albert H. Vestal, republican congressional incumbent, by a margin of 102 votes. Ball's vote was announced as 44,200. Vestal's as 44,098. Vestal's friends indicated a complete recount would be demanded.

WISHES TO CORRECT 'EVILS OF MELLONISM'

Washington, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Senator Smith W. Brookhart, republican, Iowa, announced he would vote with the democrats to organize the next senate if they would adopt a program "to correct the evils of Mellonism."

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

UNITED STATES HAS MUCH TO BE THANKFUL FOR SAYS PRESIDENT

Washington, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—The United States has much to be thankful for, President Hoover declared today in his annual Thanksgiving proclamation.

This country has suffered far less than other world peoples in existing difficulties, Mr. Hoover stated. It has been made free from discord, peace has been strengthened and progress has been made in arts and sciences, he added.

Fixing Thursday, November 27, as the national day of Thanksgiving the president called upon the citizens "to remember that many of our people are in need and suffering from causes beyond their control."

The proclamation suggested that "a proper celebration of the day should include that we may be sure that every person in the community, young and old, shall have cause to give thanks for our institutions and for the neighborly sentiment of our people."

DOCTOR CRUSHES HAND AS HE TRIES TO JACK UP CAR

Williston, N. D., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—His right hand crushed by stones he had used to jack up his car, Dr. Herman Wieland, Willrose, today was recovering from an amputation at the Good Samaritan hospital here.

Physicians found his hand so badly mangled that it was necessary to amputate it a few inches above the wrist, Dr. Wieland was changing tires while on his way to make a call in the country.

Stones, which he used to raise the wheel, slipped crushing the hand.

FIND A LIST OF TERRY DRUGGAN BEER CUSTOMERS

RAID CONDUCTED UPON HOTEL SUITE OCCUPIED BY CHICAGO GANGSTER

IN SECRET WALL PANEL POLICE FIND MACHINE GUN, REVOLVERS, AMMUNITION

Chicago, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Police under Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office conducted raids today upon a hotel suite and another apartment occupied by Terry Druggan, gangster.

They found a record which, they said, appeared to be the list of Druggan's beer customers. They found letters indicating he had gang connections from Los Angeles to New York.

In a secret panel in the wall they found a machine gun, seven revolvers, and ammunition. They found, also, much liquor, and other guns.

But they didn't find Druggan, who yesterday was "too sick" to appear in Judge John H. Lyle's court, where he was wanted on a charge of being a vagrant and where his $10,000 bond was forfeited because he wasn't there.

The raids on Druggan's apartments were ordered by Judge Lyle, who doubted the story of the gangster's attorney that Druggan was "too sick" to face trial.

'DADDY' OF BOY SCOUTS

Key West, Fla., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—The four masted American schooner "Rose Mary" of Mobile, Ala., which anchored seven miles off here in distress two days ago, caught fire today and was destroyed.

Her crew of eight men and two women, commanded by Capt. George A. Edden, owner, was rescued by the U. S. naval survey ship "Hannibal."

HUGE OIL TANKER IS FAST AGROUND

45 OF CREW VAINLY STRIVE TO RELEASE VESSEL NEAR PIGEON POINT, CALIF.

Pigeon Point, Calif., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—The huge oil tanker Tamahua was fast aground six miles north of here today while 45 crew members defied a pounding sea in an apparently futile attempt to save the vessel.

Meantime a dense fog blanketed this bleak and rocky section of the coast, 55 miles south of San Francisco.

The lack of visibility handicapped ships cruising the coast in the hope of saving the tanker, one of the largest on the Pacific.

While there was little danger of the crew members losing their lives, it appeared that the tanker was doomed.

Lying 200 yards off a pebble beach, but at a spot isolated from coast guard stations and other rescue agencies, the Tamahua apparently had buried its bow in the sands while the thrashing sea swung its stern to and fro to the mercy of the waves.

Captain Anderson, in command of the tanker, lost his bearings last night enroute south from San Francisco Bay. A thick fog obscured the coast line and while navigating under those difficulties, the tanker suddenly found itself headed north when the course was south and struck almost without warning.

BANDITS FIRE 9 BULLETS AT HER AT CLOSE RANGE

SHOTS REBOUND HARMLESSLY FROM BULLET-PROOF GLASS OF CAGE

SHE THEN STEPS ON BUTTON AND ALARMS VOLUNTEER GUARD OF TOWN

Plainfield, Ill., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Funds of the Plainfield State Bank were saved by Miss Florence Lund when she refused to open the teller's cage of the Plainfield State Bank to three bandits today.

The bandits fired nine bullets at Miss Lund from close range, but they rebounded harmlessly from the bullet-proof glass of the cage.

As the bandit leader fired the first shot, Miss Lund stepped on a button in her cage, sending an alarm to the headquarters of the volunteer town guard.

Eight more shots in quick succession rattled against the glass of Miss Lund's cage when the leader saw her act. No mark was left on the glass.

The other two bandits, herding together several bank patrons with revolvers, then called to the leader to "Let's go," and they fled.

Miss Lund's alarm sent the town guard in almost instantaneous pursuit of the bandits' automobile, which was driven away toward Aurora.

The guard was established several months ago after the bank had been robbed of $3,000.

"I didn't know how bullet-proof that glass was, but I'm glad my confidence in it was right," Miss Lund said.

WIFE CHARGES HUSBAND WITH GREAT CRUELTY

MRS. ELIZABETH SWAVELY DIES FROM BURNS SHE SAID SPOUSE INFLICTED

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Elizabeth Swavely died in city hospital today from burns which she said were inflicted by her husband, Howard, who wanted to collect $2,000 insurance on her life.

Swavely was charged with murder after his wife died.

He denied the charges. He told police the fire started from a gas heater in their furnished room.

Police at Mrs. Swavely's bedside obtained this statement from her.

"I was in bed when my husband came in. He woke me up out of bed and chased me with a lighted paper and said to me 'I got you now.' He put the lighted paper up to my face and set fire to my clothes and I tried to fight him off. After he set fire to me he ran out into the hall and started to call 'fire' but that was a bluff on his part."

"He is up against it and is hungry. He knows I am insured for a couple thousand dollars."

"Did you have any trouble with your husband?" Mrs. Swavely was asked.

"No. When I woke up I saw him with the torch and then he began following me around."

Firemen who extinguished the blaze in the furnished room said Mrs. Swavely was burned from head to foot.

WISHES TO CORRECT 'EVILS OF MELLONISM'

Washington, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Senator Smith W. Brookhart, republican, Iowa, announced he would vote with the democrats to organize the next senate if they would adopt a program "to correct the evils of Mellonism."

Complete unofficial figures from the last doubtful contest—that for the second congressman at large in Illinois—gave Richard Yates, incumbent republican, more than 10,000 plurality over William H. Dieterich, democrat.

On this basis the house lineup would be: Republicans, 271; democrats, 217; farmer-labor, 1.

New York, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—A senate controlled by republicans and a house of representatives ruled by the democrats emerged today as the probable line-up of the 72nd congress.

Tardy returns from outlying precincts in the closely contested districts today showed the following distribution of power:

Senate—Republicans, 48; democrats, 47; farmer-labor, 1; doubtful (Kentucky) 1. Necessary for majority, 49.

House—Republicans, 215; democrats 218; farmer-labor, 1; doubtful (Illinois) 1. Necessary for majority, 218.

Because of the closeness of several of the races both in the senate and in the house, this distribution could not be considered today as final, however. There seemed every likelihood that there would be several contests and recounts which might reverse the result of the unofficial returns before the congress convenes.

The outcome of the tabulations in the two races which remained doubtful, however, would not change the general political complexion of the new congress, as judged from the unofficial returns.

Technical control of the senate belonged to the republicans, despite their lack of a majority, because it was not possible for the democrats to emerge with more than 47 votes. It seemed today that the democrat would obtain their 47th in the doubtful Kentucky district, where W. Mills Logan retained a comfortable margin over Senator John M. Robison.

In the house, which had remained a puzzling factor throughout yesterday, the democrats seemed destined to assume command with a slender majority of two votes, possibly three. The one contest still considered doubtful was that in which Walter Resbit, democrat, was leading Richard Yates, republican, for the second Illinois congressman-at-large seat.

Republicans claimed the unreported precincts, which are normally republican, would win the contest for Yates.

They also claimed they still had a chance to win the 25th Illinois district seat, but officials said the democratic candidate there should be considered winner unless some irregularity develops.

It appeared, therefore, that the 72nd congress would be divided theoretically. Actually it probably will be controlled by a coalition of democrats and insurgent republicans in both houses and constitute a serious threat to many administration projects during the last two years of President Hoover's term.

Late tallies in Kentucky last night gave the democrats their apparent majority in the house. Announcement that Mrs. Katherine Langley, republican, was trailing her democratic opponent, A. J. May with not enough precincts missing to overturn the result, brought the number of democratic congressional victories in that state to 10.

Two of the closest races in which recounts or contests were certain to occur were in Minnesota and in Indiana. Senator Thomas D. Schall, of the former state, gradually wore down the large early lead of Einar Hoidale, democrat, and finally forged ahead yesterday. His victory was not accepted as final, however, by the Hoidale forces. Both sides intimated they believed there had been irregularities.

Muncie, Indiana, was the scene of probably the closest contest of the entire election. After a day of checking and re-checking, the election board announced that Claude C. Ball, democrat, had defeated Albert H. Vestal, republican congressional incumbent, by a margin of 102 votes. Ball's vote was announced as 44,200. Vestal's as 44,098. Vestal's friends indicated a complete recount would be demanded.

Story Tonic to Patient

How the ending of a serial story helped a girl patient to recover has just been told by Sir Bruce Bruce-Porter, a prominent London physician. "A novelist once wrote a serial in which the heroine was suffering from a grave disease," he related. "A girl who was dying of a similar disease read the story, and I could see it was having a great effect on her mind. The heroine got better—and my patient recovered, too. She did not know that I had written to the novelist and told him that at all costs he must allow his heroine to recover, as my patient's life depended on it. He rewrote the ending to save her life."

Important

Little Johnny burst into the house, brimming with information about the family who had just moved in next door.

"There's a father and a mother," he declared, "and they have three kids that I can play with. They must be awful important people," he added.

"What makes you think they're important?" his mother wanted to know.

"Well," defended Johnny, "one of the kids told me his father was a vegetarian."

Story Tonic to Patient

How the ending of a serial story helped a girl patient to recover has just been told by Sir Bruce Bruce Porter, a prominent London physician. "A novelist once wrote a serial in which the heroine was suffering from a grave disease," he related. "A girl who was dying of a similar disease read the story, and I could see it was having a great effect on her mind. The heroine got better—and my patient recovered, too. She did not know that I had written to the novelist and told him that at all costs he must allow his heroine to recover, as my patient's life depended on it. He rewrote the ending to save her life."

Important

Little Johnny burst into the house, brimming with information about the family who had just moved in next door.

"Well," defended Johnny, "one of the kids told me his father was a vegetarian."

"THE MAN OF THE HOUR", READING

Prof. I. M. Cochran to Appear Before Musical Club Saturday Afternoon

Probably no play of the modern times has created more interest than "The Man of the Hour" by George Broadhurst, to be given tomorrow afternoon at the Elks' Temple at 3 o'clock by Prof. I. M. Cochran, reader.

The play deals with political corruption and exposes the methods employed—graft, bribery, intrigue, tyrannical bossism—which goes to bake up corruption in politics. The story is one of human interest with many thrilling, dramatic situations, and sparkles with wit and humor.

The Moorhead News has this to say about Mr. Cochran:

That Prof. I. M. Cochran has won a firm hold in the hearts of the students of the Normal School was abundantly evidenced last Friday evening when the entire student body turned out to hear the reading of "The Man of the Hour." This remarkable story by George Broadhurst treats of political corruption that furnishes so many striking stories from life in the cities of today. The characters are refreshingly real, varied and individual, and these make the story full of human interest, and bring about, through their actions, many amusing and thrilling situations.

Mr. Cochran's reading will follow the Musical club luncheon held at 1 o'clock at the Washington high school. He is appearing here under the auspices of the Brainerd Musical club.

Guests at the luncheon will include Mrs. L. H. Colson, district president, Mrs. Paul Kenyon and Mrs. C. W. Muller, president of the Wadena Musical club.

Science in the Field of Nutrition

ADVANCES of science in the field of nutrition have been among the greatest of the first third of the twentieth century. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical association told the Minnesota Education association convention while in session at Minneapolis.

"Application of the modern knowledge of nutrition may develop a different type of man than the one we know today," said Dr. Fishbein.

He said that the early knowledge of the vitamin had been directed toward treating diseases caused by deficiency in the diet. Modern science is concerning itself with the possibility of producing a more healthful existence for the vast majority of people by proper feeding.

Fishbein condemned fads in eating and said there was "plenty of evidence" that the craze for slenderization resulted in an increase in the tubercular rate in girls between 15 and 25 years old in most large cities while other tubercular rates were falling.

"It has even been taken for granted that the brain of man, as it is developed today, represents the highest type of intellect conceivable. Yet the brain of man today represents a great evolution forward from the brain of mankind thousands of years ago. Who can say what will be the type of the man of the future?" Fishbein said.

"We know that there is no specific brain food. The superstition and the magic of the past were ready to accept the belief that there were specific foods for specific powers. The science of the past doubted these superstitions and beliefs because there was no evidence to indicate the slightest basis for them. Scientific knowledge developed in the last quarter century has proved the truth of the general belief, but at the same time has disproved the superstitions held by many people.

"There is not the slightest evidence that any special food or any combination of foods will produce cancer and there is not the slightest reason for believing that the eating of whole wheat or any other particular food will prevent cancer," Fishbein said.

In spite of all this highly developed medical testimony every man and woman soon comes to a realization of what food he or she relishes and what he or she dare eat. Some persons cannot eat spinach. Some do not relish luteifisk. Others have difficulty digesting such things as luscious strawberries and gain hives or a rash from buckwheat cakes.

That a whole nation may thrive or deteriorate on its diet is noticeable in war times when a blockaded country is limited in supplying fats, milk, etc. A nation not well fed, and by that we mean supplied with the essentials and not the frills of diet, may soon deteriorate. It has been noticed, for instance, that nations supplied with a liberal fish diet have little or no signs of goitre in evidence.

As individuals differ in stature, strength and intelligence, so do their digestive arrangements, their likes and dislikes in foods. Many a man does not relish to eat "what is good for him."

Twenty Years of Service

THE Northwestern Bell magazine of October, 1930, carries a record of "Anniversaries of the Month," recording in that department men and women who have attained 10, 15, 20 or more years in the service of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Julius Viken, wire chief at Brainerd, observed his 20-year anniversary on September 14 and was given extended mention in the official magazine, which stated that he began his telephone career at Toten, Norway, where his father was engaged in telephone work for many years. Mr. Viken came to the United States in 1904 and spent the next six years working for various electric companies throughout the Northwest. In 1910 he joined the forces of the Northwestern Bell company as a wire chief at Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Since that time he has served in a similar capacity at Vermillion, South Dakota, Marshall, Montevideo and Brainerd in Minnesota.

Mr. Viken's son is now with the telephone company in Brainerd, making the third generation of the family in telephone work and linking Norway with the United States in telephonic circles.

As Brainerd wire chief Mr. Viken has supervision over the telegraph printers at the Dispatch office and has given wonderful service. The Dispatch machines were put in October, 1925, and their maintenance and service has been so satisfactory that the record achieved is one of the best in the Northwest.

In general, the work done by Mr. Viken at all times, and frequently beyond the regular working hours, always ready in any emergency, was commented on by the Dispatch in an editorial which was given further prominence by being reproduced in the official magazine of the telephone company and photostatic copies were sent generally throughout the nation-wide jurisdiction of the company.

He is experienced in toll line construction and exchange line construction. A frequent feat successfully carried out is to make switchboard cutovers, enlarging a hotel service like the Ransford hotel, or the Breezy Point new board which doubled service, all carried out without interruption of regular telephone service. It involves duplication of lines or equipment and the change over is made so expertly that patrons are not aware of the difficulties involved to continue service. In plain language it is similar to building a new bridge on or near the site of an old bridge and keeping traffic going and having no interruption when the switch is made from old to new.

Obedient "Stop" Signs

A CAMPAIGN against motorists who fail to stop at arterial highways, in which 66 were arrested, brought the total number of arrests by the State Highway Patrol in September to 235, the largest number in any month since the patrol was established, except last May.

The patrol gave warnings to 5,126 violators of traffic rules and 3,702 for illegal equipment. The two most common offenses which brought warnings were improper parking, 2,235, and driving in wrong lanes, 875. The two most common equipment faults were no rear light, 1,208, and one head light, 1,205. The patrol traveled an average of 3,964 miles for each man during the month in the performance of their duties. They gave road information and other aid to 24,188 motorists and attended 43 accidents.

The "stop" signs at Brainerd arterial highways have done much to obviate accidents at these points and breaking the "stop" rule is now a rare occurrence.

"It's the little things that tell"

That's what big sister said to her boy friend as she pulled little brother out from under the sofa. But wait till big sister and the boy friend are man and wife, with a home of their own to run. Then how much more she'll realize the truth of her observation!

For then the age old problems will come pressing hard. So much in the pocketbook. So much on the shopping list. Will it fit? Then's when the little things make the big difference. The little savings—the small economies—the slightly better values of which a good housekeeper takes advantage.

Then's when big sister will read the advertisements as she never read them before. Comparing values; learning reliable brands; watching the bargain and reduction announcements. . . . The advertisements will help her in a thousand ways to take care of the little things, acquire the little short-cuts in time and effort—in the big job of running a home.

Read the advertisements every day. Consistently advertised goods are worthy of your confidence . . . otherwise they couldn't be consistently advertised

In general, the work done by Mr. Viken at all times, and frequently beyond the regular working hours, always ready in any emergency, was commented on by the Dispatch in an editorial which was given further prominence by being reproduced in the official magazine of the telephone company and photostatic copies were sent generally throughout the nation-wide jurisdiction of the company.

He is experienced in toll line construction and exchange line construction. A frequent feat successfully carried out is to make switchboard cutovers, enlarging a hotel service like the Ransford hotel, or the Breezy Point new board which doubled service, all carried out without interruption of regular telephone service. It involves duplication of lines or equipment and the change over is made so expertly that patrons are not aware of the difficulties involved to continue service. In plain language it is similar to building a new bridge on or near the site of an old bridge and keeping traffic going and having no interruption when the switch is made from old to new.

Obedient "Stop" Signs

A CAMPAIGN against motorists who fail to stop at arterial highways, in which 66 were arrested, brought the total number of arrests by the State Highway Patrol in September to 235, the largest number in any month since the patrol was established, except last May.

The patrol gave warnings to 5,126 violators of traffic rules and 3,702 for illegal equipment. The two most common offenses which brought warnings were improper parking, 2,235, and driving in wrong lanes, 875. The two most common equipment faults were no rear light, 1,208, and one head light, 1,205. The patrol traveled an average of 3,964 miles for each man during the month in the performance of their duties. They gave road information and other aid to 24,188 motorists and attended 43 accidents.

The "stop" signs at Brainerd arterial highways have done much to obviate accidents at these points and breaking the "stop" rule is now a rare occurrence.

BIG TEN CONFERENCE TITLE CONTENDERS IN SHORT TRUCE

LEVINSKY DEFEATS SLATTERY IN TEN ROUND BOUT

PREPARING FOR FINAL IMPORTANT GAMES OF SEASON

THIS SATURDAY NORTHWESTERN MEETS INDIANA, PURDUE OPPOSES CHICAGO

ATTRACT ONLY PASSING ATTENTION, INDIANA AND CHICAGO REGARDED AS "SETUPS"

By DIXON STEWART
Chicago, Nov. 7.—Big Ten conference title contenders will enjoy a partial truce this week, to prepare for the final important games of the 1936 season.

Only two conference games are scheduled, Northwestern meeting Indiana and Purdue opposing Chicago. Although both Northwestern and Purdue still are in the race for titular honors (the games are attracting only passing interest, with Indiana and Chicago regarded as "setup" opposition).

Michigan, the third title contender which shares rating with Northwestern as one of the two undefeated teams, is taking part in the western conference's unopposed eastern invasion. The Wolverines play Harvard at Cambridge in the feature game involving Big Ten teams. Two other conference clubs, Illinois and Ohio State, visit the Atlantic seaboard for games against Army and Navy respectively with Notre Dame's clash with Pennsylvania at Philadelphia completing the list of east-west tilts.

The remaining three conference teams play minor western opponents, Minnesota and Wisconsin enjoying "breathers" against South Dakota and South Dakota State respectively while Iowa's rejuvenated eleven tries its luck against the undefeated Marquette team at Milwaukee.

Possibility of "upsets" furnishes the chief interest for the conference battles. Indiana has been a "jinx" club for Northwestern ever since Coach Dick Hanley has handled the Wildcats and hopes to knock Hanley's team out of the race for the fourth consecutive season. On "dope," Northwestern should win decisively, but Coach Page will have Indiana "keyed" for their homecoming battle and the game may produce much better competition than expected.

Chicago's chief hope against Purdue is to keep the score low. Even Coach Stagg does not expect his Maroons, who have failed to score a point in four games, to defeat Purdue. However, he will have the team on the field trying for victory and is prepared to give the Boiler-makers' forward pass defense a strenuous test. For many years Purdue was Chicago's favorite victim—the Maroons, at one time winning 15 consecutive games—but the tide has changed recently and the past two seasons Purdue has won decisively.

Purdue still has a chance to win a second successive conference title—if both Northwestern and Michigan lose one of their remaining games—and Coach Kizer will start his strongest team against Chicago to avert the chance of an upset defeat.

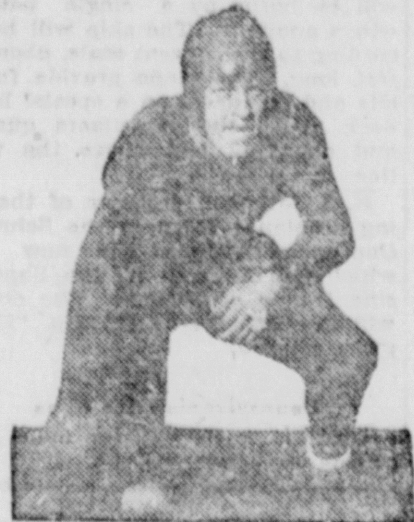

After this week's armistice the title contenders will return to strenuous competition. Northwestern will close its Big Ten season against Wisconsin, Nov. 15, in what promises to be the Wildcats' toughest conference battle. Michigan faces an equally dangerous opponent in Minnesota and if the Wolverines get by this game they should complete their schedule against Chicago, Nov. 22, undefeated. Purdue plays Butler in a non-conference game next week and closes its season a week later against its traditional state rival—Indiana.

Unless either Northwestern or Purdue suffers an unexpected defeat tomorrow it seems probable that the race will remain undecided until the final day of the season.

BUT FEW SEEING FIGHT THOUGHT HIM ENTITLED TO WIN

CHICAGO HEAVYWEIGHT LEVINSKY WEIGHED 182, SLATTERY 137 3 4 POUNDS

DECISION NOT UNANIMOUS, ONE JUDGE VOTING FOR SLATTERY

By GEORGE KIRKSEY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—King Levinsky, Chicago's promising young heavy-weight, added a 20-round decision over former light-heavyweight champion, to his record today but few of the 28,276 persons who paid $5,796.52 to see the bout last night in the Chicago stadium thought he was entitled to the verdict. Levinsky weighed 182, Slattery 137 3 4.

The decision was not unanimous. Referee Norman McGarrity and Livingston E. Osborne, one of the judges, voted for Levinsky, while the other judge, M. J. Gorrigan, voted for Slattery. McGarrity and Osborne each gave Levinsky 55 points and Slattery 45. Gorrigan scored Slattery 61 points and Levinsky 39.

Levinsky, whose knockout victories over Leo Lomski and Tom Kirby have made him a big favorite here, received an unpopular demonstration when he left the ring. The crowd gave Slattery a great ovation.

Game and willing, but hardly more than a novice against a master boxer, Levinsky was at the mercy of Slattery's stinging left jabs most of the fight. Through the first five rounds, Levinsky seldom landed solidly as Slattery ducked, dodged, pushed him off balance and jabbed him constantly with a straight left. Slattery easily won four of the first five rounds.

Levinsky made a strong bid for a knockout in the sixth round and punished Slattery severely with a two-fisted attack to the head. The bell, however, saved Slattery as he was backed against the ropes in his own corner, groggy and bleeding from cuts about the mouth and face.

Always boiling in, Levinsky chased Slattery most of the last four rounds, but was made to miss repeatedly and never had the Buffalo boy in real danger again. Both were very tired at the finish. There were no knock-downs. Levinsky did his best work when he had Slattery cornered or back against the rope.

Levinsky's terrific right, which had Lomski on the floor 12 times, inflicted little damage to Slattery. Once in the eighth Levinsky missed a wild right swing and fell sprawling. Levinsky's left hook was his best weapon, landing Slattery most every time he nailed him with it.

The United Press scored five rounds for Slattery, three for Levinsky, with two even. The referee gave only one round to Slattery, the second. He scored six rounds for Levinsky, and the other three even.

Otto Von Porat, Chicago heavy-weight, won an unpopular decision from Jack Renault, New York veteran, in the 10-round semifinal. Von Porat, who weighed 202½, floored Renault, who scaled 207½, twice, once in the first round for a count of five and again in the eighth for a count of eight.

Ernie Ross, Chicago, knocked out Peter Mack, Jersey City feather-weight, after 2 minutes, 10 seconds of the first round. Ross weighed 131½, Mack 131.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Negotiations were completed today for Young Stribling, Georgia heavy-weight, to meet Tuffy Griffiths of Chicago in a 10-round bout at the Chicago stadium December 12 for the benefit of the unemployed. Pa. Stribling agreed to terms for his son. Stribling will meet Arthur De Kuh at Atlanta Tuesday night.

The other day Emile was out selling cough and throat pills in the street. In a hoarse and untidy voice Emile exhorted his unwilling listeners to take a fling at the capsules and be cured.

"Cecile Sorel uses my pills every day," he barked. "Aristide Briand feels up on them every time he gets ready to cast a spell over the League of Nations," and so on.

Whereupon a thrifty housewife leaned out of the window and bellowed: "It wouldn't hurt any to try one or two for your own throat."

"Madame," said Emile very solemnly, "that is not a half bad idea." And burst forth in silvery tenor, a cured man. Customers came running. Emile sold out his stock and went away crooning in the rain.

FOOTBALL NOTES

(By United Press)
Madison, Wis., Nov. 7.—Coach Thistlethwaite plans to withhold his Wisconsin regulars from Saturday's game with South Dakota State. Successive hard games with Chicago, Pennsylvania, Purdue and Ohio State have sapped the players' strength and Thistlethwaite believes Gantenbein and Casey, ends; Lubatovich and Smith, tackles; Kabaat, guard; Kruger, center; Goldenberg, quarterback; and Ehr, halfback, need a rest from play if the Badgers are to make a creditable showing against Northwestern, Nov. 15.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 7.—Iowa's football squad of 33 players left last night for Milwaukee where they are scheduled to play the undefeated Marquette team Saturday. Last week's surprise win over DePue gave the squad new confidence and the Iowans now hope for victory.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 7.—Minnesota will try a new offensive formation in tomorrow's game with South Dakota, as a test for the all-important Michigan game Nov. 15. MacDougal, Kresowski and Dillner were excused from practice yesterday but will be ready for play against the Dakotans.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 7.—Michigan's football squad was enroute today to Cambridge, Mass., where it will play Harvard Saturday. The squad left yesterday afternoon and was given the largest student demonstration in the history of the school. More than 6,000 students turned out to cheer the departing team.

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Knute Rockne and thirty-eight members of his Notre Dame football squad arrived here today for their game with Pennsylvania on Franklin field tomorrow. The Irish were scheduled for a light workout this afternoon to get the train kinks out of their systems. Temple university offered the Rocknemen the use of its stadium for the practice session.

There was a huge crowd at the North Philadelphia station to meet the famous Irish squad. Hundreds of them were there to welcome the two home town boys who have made good with Rockne—Captain Tom Conley and Martin Brill.

Columbus, O., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Ohio State's football squad still is suffering from bruises and minor injuries received against Wisconsin, and is not expected to be in top shape for the Navy battle tomorrow. The Buckeyes left late last night after a final home workout during the afternoon.

Evansville, Ill., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Northwestern's squad of 35 players will leave here tonight for Bloomington, Ind., where they will meet their "jinx" team, Indiana, tomorrow. All players except Pug Renter, fullback, Frank Baker, end, and Lee Hanley, quarterback, are in good condition, but this trio is expected to see little action.

SPORT BUG.

IDEAL back field stars must have the approximate strength of a Carnera, the defensive skill of a Tunney or Stribling, and the climax punch of a Dempsey in his aggressive zenith. Furthermore, and fundamentally, they must have a good line and at least one masterly interferer to pave the way for important gains. Among the score of more or less headline ball-toters this season, Elmer Schwartz, of Washington State, and Merle Hufford, of Washington, were stand-outs from the start.

Schwartz is a line pounder extraordinary, supported by a team which some day may be acclaimed as Washington State's "best ever."

He's also a superb defensive back—alert on passing details and a perfect tackler. "Babe" Hollingberry, Cougar coach, puts "El" Schwartz on a par with Ernie Nevers who, a few seasons back, was rated by "Pop" Warner as "an even greater football player than Jim Thorpe."

Of course, Schwartz works back of a first-class line and with stellar backfield associates. But as Cougar critics point out, their ace probably would be a better edition of Yale's Albie Booth on any team.

The same virile State, Washington, is also very proud of the have-raising Hufford, who seems to be the chief rival of Schwartz in the vast Northwest. Like the crashing Cougar, the Huskies' chief hero is a seasoned gridster who appears to have reached the top of his form this season.

For years the argument as to which is the greater back—"El" or Merle, of the Schwartz and Hufford clans respectively—will persist, and that should be as difficult to settle as debates over the relative superiority of Coy or Mahan, Eckersall or Friedman, Hinkley or Shevlin, etc., etc.

Incidentally, Notre Dame is equally proud of another Schwartz, Marchand ("March-on") he's aptly christened. He's not related to the husky hummer except in football skill. But isn't that in itself enough to thrill the Schwartz family everywhere?

Levinsky's terrific right, which had Lomski on the floor 12 times, inflicted little damage to Slattery. Once in the eighth Levinsky missed a wild right swing and fell sprawling. Levinsky's left hook was his best weapon, felling Slattery most every time he nailed him with it.

The United Press scored five rounds for Slattery, three for Levinsky, with two even. The referee gave only one round to Slattery, the second. He scored six rounds for Levinsky, and the other three even.

Otto Von Porat, Chicago heavy-weight, won an unpopular decision from Jack Rnault, New York veteran, in the 10-round semifinal. Von Porat, who weighed 202 1/2, floored Rnault, who scaled 207 1/2, twice, once in the first round for a count of five and again in the eighth for a count of eight.

Barney Ross, Chicago, knocked out Percy Mack, Jersey City feather-weight, after 2 minutes, 10 seconds of the first round. Ross weighed 131 1/2, Mack 131.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Negotiations were completed today for Young Stribling, Georgia heavy-weight, to meet Tuffy Griffiths of Chicago in a 10-round bout at the Chicago stadium December 12 for the benefit of the unemployed. Pa Stribling agreed to terms for his son. Stribling will meet Arthur De Kuh at Atlanta Tuesday night.

The other day Emile was out selling cough and throat pills in the street. In a hoarse and untidy voice Emile exhorted his unwilling listeners to take a fling at the capsules and be cured.

"Cecile Sorel uses my pills every day," he barked. "Aristide Briand fuels up on them every time he gets ready to cast a spell over the League of Nations," and so on.

Whereupon a thrifty housewife leaned out of the window and belatedly: "It wouldn't hurt any to try one or two for your own throat."

"Madame," said Emile very solemnly, "that is not a bad idea." And, burst forth in silvery tenor, a cured man. Customers came running. Emile sold out his stock and went away crooning in the rain.

FOOTBALL NOTES

(By United Press)

Madison, Wis., Nov. 7.—Coach Thistlethwaite plans to withhold his Wisconsin regulars from Saturday's game with South Dakota State. Successive hard games with Chicago, Pennsylvania, Purdue and Ohio State have sapped the players' strength and Thistlethwaite believes Gantenbein and Casey, ends; Lubratovich and Smith, tackles; Kabat, guard; Kruger, center; Goldenberg, quarterback, and Behr, halfback, need a rest from play if the Badgers are to make a creditable showing against Northwestern, Nov. 15.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 7.—Iowa's football squad of 33 players left last night for Milwaukee where they are scheduled to play the undefeated Marquette team Saturday. Last week's surprise win over DePue gave the squad new confidence and the Iowans now hope for victory.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 7.—Minnesota will try out new offensive formations in tomorrow's game with South Dakota, as a test for the all important Michigan Nov. 15. MacDougal, Krezowski and Dillner were excused from practice yesterday but will be ready for play with the Dakotans.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 7.—Michigan's football squad was enroute today to Cambridge, Mass., where it will play Harvard Saturday. The squad left yesterday afternoon and was given the largest student demonstration in the history of the school. More than 6,000 students turned out to cheer the departing team.

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Knute Rockne and thirty-eight members of his Notre Dame football squad arrived here today for their game with Pennsylvania on Franklin field tomorrow.

The Irish were scheduled for a light workout this afternoon to get the train kinks out of their systems. Temple university offered the Rockne men the use of its stadium for the practice session.

There was a huge crowd at the North Philadelphia station to meet the famous Irish squad. Hundreds of them were there to welcome the two home town boys who have made good with Rockne—Captain Tom Conley and Martin Brill.

Columbus, O., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Ohio State's football squad still is suffering from bruises and minor injuries received against Wisconsin, and is not expected to be in top shape for the Navy battle tomorrow. The Buckeyes left late last night after a final home workout during the afternoon.

Evansville, Ill., Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Northwestern's squad of 35 players will leave here tonight for Bloomington, Ind., where they will meet their "jinx" team, Indiana, tomorrow. All players except Pug Renter, fullback, Frank Baker, end, and Lee Hanley, quarterback, are in good condition, but this trio is expected to see little action.

IDEAL back field stars must have the approximate strength of a Carnera, the defensive skill of a Tunney or Stribling, and the climax punch of a Dempsey in his aggressive zenith. Furthermore, and fundamentally, they must have a good line and at least one masterly interferer to pave the way for important gains. Among the score or more of headlined ball-toters this season, Elmer Schwartz, of Washington State, and Merle Hufford, of Washington, were stand-outs from the start.

Schwartz is a line pounder extraordinary supported by a team which some day may be acclaimed as Washington State's "best ever."

He's also a superb defensive back—alert on passing details and a perfect tackler. "Babe" Hollingberry, Cougar coach, puts "El" Schwartz on a par with Ernie Nevers who, a few seasons back, was rated by "Pop" Warner as "an even greater football player than Jim Thorpe."

Of course, Schwartz works back of a first-class line and with stellar backfield associates. But as Cougar critics point out, their ace probably would be a heftier edition of Yale's Albie Booth on any team.

The same virile State, Washington, is also very proud of the havoc-raising Hufford, who seems to be the chief rival of Schwartz in the west Northwest. Like the crashing Cougar, the Huskies' chief hero is a seasoned gridster who appears to have reached the top of his form this season.

For years the argument as to which is the greater back—"El" or Merle, of the Schwartz and Hufford clans respectively—will persist, and that should be as difficult to settle as debates over the relative superiority of Coy or Mahan, Eckersall or Friedman, Hinkley or Shevlin, etc., etc.

Incidentally, Notre Dame is equally proud of another Schwartz, Marchand ("March-on") he's aptly christened. He's not related to the Husky hammer except in football skill. But isn't that in itself enough to thrill the Schwartz family everywhere?

HOIDALE IN CONFERENCE WITH PARTY LEADERS

TO DETERMINE WHAT ACTION IF ANY TO BE TAKEN ON ELECTION RESULT

WHETHER TO CONTEST OR TO DEMAND A RECOUNT OF
THE BALLOTS

By HILLIER KRIEGHBAUM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Paul, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—Einar Hoidale, defeated democratic senatorial nominee, today conferred with his party's leaders to determine what action, if any, would be taken to contest or to demand a recount of the balloting that elected Thomas D. Schall.

Senator Schall, republican, was re-elected by a margin of approximately 8,000 votes as the final northern Minnesota precincts were being tabulated.

The exact official margin of Schall's victory will not be known until the state's canvassing board meets here on Nov. 18.

"I want to confer with state democratic leaders first," Hoidale said today when questioned as to what action he planned to take.

"Theoretically we are not sure yet that we have been defeated. We must wait until the canvassing board passes upon the returns. I can not say whether we will then take a recount or contest the election, both courses are being considered."

Senator Schall, tired by the campaign, remained in bed late this morning. At no time during the tabulation, even when Hoidale had piled up a plurality of 43,000 votes in the calculations of early Twin City and urban returns, would Schall concede defeat.

Hoidale would not discuss reports that his workers had gathered affidavits which might be used in a contest based on alleged violations of the corrupt practices act. He said he would issue a statement after conferring with his advisors and democratic party leaders.

Hubert Duautremont, chairman of the state democratic central committee, was not reported in the Twin Cities today.

Floyd B. Olson, farmer-labor, governor-elect, had carried Henry Arens into office as lieutenant governor. While Olson piled up a plurality of more than 175,000 votes for himself, Arens managed to lead by less than 10,000. Arens spent practically his entire campaign in behalf of governor and his own election over John N. Hougren, republican, surprised even some of his own party's followers.

The rest of the republican state ticket was selected.

Nine republican and one farmer-labor congressman, all incumbents, were re-elected.

An analysis of the voting shows that split balloting was most frequent. The democrats' best candidate—Hoidale—polled only slightly less than the leading republican. The farmer-labor party's leading candidate had a margin of approximately 175,000. Mike Holm, republican secretary of state who was re-elected, had a margin of victory of 180,000.

AMERICA'S ANNUAL CRIME BILL NEARS TEN BILLION DOLLARS

Minneapolis, Nov. 7.—(U.P.)—America's annual crime bill today is $10,000,000, 600, James E. Baum, deputy manager of the American Bankers association protective department, told the Tri-state Bankers association today.

Baum said the crime bill was split almost evenly between direct financial losses and costs of police, courts and prisons.

Contrary to general opinion, the most serious menaces to banks are found on their own forces.

He estimated the direct crime loss of American banks at $12,000,000 a year.

"Of this yearly burden, the embezzler accounted for not less than $7,000,000, the forger for $1,000,000, hold-up bandits less than $2,000,000, burglars $400,000, with the remainder divided among credit sharps, sneak thieves and swindlers," Baum said.

ENGLAND TO MATCH VENTURE OF GERMAN DO-X

BRITISH CRAFT TO BE NATION'S LARGEST HEAVIER- THAN-
AIR MACHINE

TO BE EQUIPPED WITH 6 MOT-
ORS AND TO WEIGH MORE
THAN 33 TONS

By VIRGIL PINKLEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Nov. 7.—Construction of a large plane which may revolutionize British commercial aviation, has been decided on, it was revealed today as England matched the venture of the German flying boat DO-X.

The British craft will be the nation's largest heavier-than-air machine, equipped with six motors and developing a total horse power of 4,950. It will weigh more than 33 tons and be able to fly 155 miles an hour, compared to the 125 mile pace of the DO-X.

It will be built for the air ministry. Its distance from wing tip to wing will be about 140 feet, some 20 feet more than the German craft, now the largest in the world. Near the center the wings will be more than six feet in depth. It will have a cruising range of about 1,000 miles and will be all-metal.

Construction of the plane has been delayed until the state of aerodynamical and engine knowledge has justified the experiment. The flight of the DO-X probably has had considerable influence on the plans.

The new British plane, which will be a flying boat, will be 20 feet high at the hull and carry five salon cabins each 14 feet wide, with accommodations for 40 passengers. Each cabin will be borne by a single pair of wings above it. The ship will be, according to the present scale, about 100 feet long. The plans provide for pilots and engineers on a special bridge deck above the passengers quarters and about 12 feet above the water line.

R. J. Mitchell, designer of the racing seaplanes flown in the Schneider Cup races, designed the new craft which will be built by the Supermarine Works of Vickers. The engines will be Rolls-Royce 825 Hp. "H" 12-cylinder units.

MAKES DEMANDS OF NEW THEATRE

Council Stipulates Extra Improvements to Building to be Utilized for Theatre

GIVES LICENSE TO OPERATE
Operator Agrees to Meet Specifications, Cost Now to Reach $25,000

In protection to the city, the council at an adjourned meeting last evening outlined definite specifications governing the remodeling of the Walker Block at 707 Front street proposed by the G. & L. theatre corporation of Minneapolis for use as a theatre building.

Informing the operators that the building must be constructed to conform with the building code of the city and must meet the requirements of the building inspector, fire inspector and state fire marshal, the council voted the theatre corporation the right to operate the theatre.

Such a permit is the initial step in the securing of a theatre. The corporation must now present detailed plans as to construction, material and interior arrangements before a building permit can be secured.

J. H. Luscher, vice president of the firm stated to the council that all the requirements of the building code and the additional demands of the council would be met.

He said that the reconstruction of the "building" would require an additional $5,000 expenditure because of the extra clauses, bringing the total cost of the proposed new theatre to $25,000.

"We will install all new equipment, employ only union help and give preference to Brainerd men in the construction work," Mr. Luscher said.

These specific requirements were requested by the building committee in a report to the council which was accepted.

The building must have an entire new concrete slab on the first floor. All wiring must be in conduit as far as possible.

Remove wooden stairway to second floor and remove wooden second floor. Repair present wooden roof framing, place a new fire proof covering and install a suspended ceiling of metal lath and plaster.

All interior furnishings must be of fire proof materials as far as possible. Mr. Luscher said that the theatre would be equipped with 430 seats.

"I am in favor of having anything progressive come to the city. We must however demand that the new theatre be the type that will be safe for our children to go to. We should be sure it will be desirable," R. E. Wyett said.

On motion of Aldermen Wesley and Elvig the license to operate was granted subject to the approval of the building code, fire inspector and the specifications of the building committee's report.

MAKES DEMANDS OF NEW THEATRE

Council Stipulates Extra Improvements to Building to be Utilized for Theatre

GIVES LICENSE TO OPERATE

Operator Agrees to Meet Specifications, Cost Now to Reach $25,000

In protection to the city, the council at an adjourned meeting last evening outlined definite specifications governing the remodeling of the Walker Block at 707 Front street proposed by the G. & L. theatre corporation of Minneapolis for use as a theatre building.

Informing the operators that the building must be constructed to conform with the building code of the city and must meet the requirements of the building inspector, fire inspector and state fire marshal, the council voted the theatre corporation the right to operate the theatre.

Such a permit is the initial step in the securing of a theatre. The corporation must now present detailed plans as to construction, material and interior arrangements before a building permit can be secured.

J. H. Luscher, vice president of the firm stated to the council that all the requirements of the building code and the additional demands of the council would be met.

He said that the reconstruction of the building would require an additional $5,000 expenditure because of the extra clauses, bringing the total cost of the proposed new theatre to $25,000.

"We will install all new equipment, employ only union help and give preference to Brainerd men in the construction work," Mr. Luscher said.

These specific requirements were requested by the building committee in a report to the council which was accepted.

The building must have an entire new concrete slab on the first floor. All wiring must be in conduit as far as possible.

Remove wooden stairway to second floor and remove wooden second floor. Repair present wooden roof framing, place a new fire proof covering and install a suspended ceiling of metal lath and plaster.

All interior furnishings must be of fire proof materials as far as possible. Mr. Luscher said that the theatre would be equipped with 430 seats.

"I am in favor of having anything progressive come to the city. We must however demand that the new theatre be the type that will be safe for our children to go to. We should be sure it will be desirable," R. E. Wyatt said.

On motion of Aldermen Wesley and Elvig the license to operate was granted subject to the approval of the building code, fire inspector and the specifications of the building committee's report.

"JUDY" By Winifred Van Duzer

ON a cruise with her mother, Judith Archer, young school teacher, is attracted to Kit Camp, the ship's radio operator. Though pretty, Judy's charm is hidden by her eye-glasses and conservative style of dress. Visiting the Public Gardens, at Halifax, Judy hears about a scar-faced man dashes out of the shrubbery, followed by a dark, handsome man. Later, on board ship, Judy falls and breaks her glasses. Feeling a steady hand on her arm, she gazes into the laughing eyes of the handsome stranger of Public Gardens. He is Tristram Millet. Judy and Tris meet Kit, who gives Judy a piercing look. Tris tells Judy she is beautiful. As Tris denies knowledge of the Public Gardens quarrel, the scar-faced man peers in the window. Tris tells Judy it is her imagination. Next morning, Judy sees Kit with a girl and is jealous. Later, he tells Judy he had been waiting for her.

CHAPTER XVI.

"I NDEED! I'll have you know I'm no sleepy-head, Mr. Kit Camp. I saw the sunrise—a corner of it—from my cabin, it being a free show and all." She was thinking of the amused way he bent down to listen when Evelyn Cary fluttered her lashes. Did he think her full of tricks as well as eager to parade them for him? High-handed—well, he'd soon see he wasn't dealing with an Evelyn Cary.

"So, unless you've got any brand-new sights; Mr. Camp, I'll just be making myself comfortable with a book or such, the same being interesting as well as entertaining, and easily shut up should it become a bore." She tossed him a smile, the green eyes darkening with a hidden light. Very boyish, heart-shakingly winsome he looked as he stood there muffled to the ears in a white wool sweater, rakish little beret drawn over his forehead, even teeth flashing in his slow grin.

"But there are new sights. Miss Spitfire Hi—mad? Ah—a great compliment, really—talk of this later, Judy; there is something you must see—switched with Doyle so I could show you. Put this on, it's windy where we're going."

He was all haste and energy, pulling at the orange scarf, thrusting a beret like the one he wore into her hands, sweeping her before him to the sun deck.

"Much chance you give me to say 'No,' she murmured half angrily, as she tried to catch the beret around her hair. It was too small, and in a panic of impatience because of his urging she drew the pins from the knot at her neck, let the dark, heavy waves cascade about her shoulders before twisting up the ends so she might put the cap on like a net.

Kit Camp seemed in no hurry to go on now, loitering with his gaze dreamy, little restless movements at the corner of his lips.

"Wind blowing your hair that way—you're lovely, Judy. Like a picture—beautiful."

Big, awkward fellow, jerking it out in a mumble, red flaming up in his face, looking so astounded. Emotion poured through Judy, hammered at her temples, stung her eyes. An outrage that he could make her feel so—that anything this big boy could say would make her want to cry. Detestable—oh, for heaven's sake—

"Beauty!" she flung out in bitter irritation. "That's what men think about! Women's looks—not brain—just beauty."

"Men DO think," he grinned. "Credit men with that. They often THINK, Miss Snapping Turtle."

In a white rage she whirled on him, pounded his chest with her fists. "Don't you call me that! Don't you dare! Don't speak to me again—you hear? Not ever—" about her wrists, held so she could not move, put his calm face close to hers. "Any time I wish I shall speak to you, Judy, my dear. Any time I wish—and you will listen! Get that, Judy? You will listen!" They faced each other, white and tense, and Judy's eyes were pools of light flaming at him, cutting with a hot fury through his amused grin.

Kit Camp locked his fingers not ever again!

His fingers tightened on her wrists. She saw that his eyes were nearly black—they made her think of the sea lashed by storm. At the rolled-down edge of his collar a pulse beat in a mad way, but his hands were steady—bands of steel on his flesh. A mark to remain forever—his grip would leave that. Such shadowy but powerful gyves were they which held womankind in bondage.

She writhed back, but he gave her his lazy smile, flaunting his triumph—brought his face down so his breath was against her cheek, chucking in his throat.

"You'd not get away, Judy—think I don't know this? You don't want to get away—ah, Pepperbox, I'll prove it. See—like this—"

He dropped her hands, stood there leaning down, laughing in her face. She gave him a long, bewildered stare, but made no move, and he laughed again, cried, "You see?" and lifted her bodily up the little elevation to the roof above the ballroom.

In a bound he was beside her and now, in this unprotected place, they had to huddle and brace themselves against the swirling, hilarious rush of wind.

"Righto, Judy, I'm hanging on"—his arm about her, catching her against him. His grin flashed as she gasped for breath. They kept going forward step by step—once again he swung her from her feet, carried her up a short flight of stairs and put her down on the hurricane deck.

They stood a moment swaying in the gale; with a mischievous chuckle he pretended he was losing his balance, that they were about to be blown over the side and away. She clutched at him, his hands about her, and he put his head down, laid his cheek against hers, staid and sober all at once.

"It's all right, Judy—Judy, dear... Wind is a frolicsome puppy. You aren't afraid? You will learn. Be a sailor one fine day. Brought some blankets up. . . Here—re-served seat. Please, you'll not be angry when you see what I'm saving up for you."

It was as if they existed on a tiny island in a universe composed wholly of rolling, foam-flecked sea and overhanging gray sky. Lying flat with robes pulled up to her eyes, Judy new long, exhilarating breaths, felt her anger melt, absorbed in the sparkle which seemed to fill the world.

"You're smiling? Right-o! I'm forgiven, then." From his own roll of blankets Kit Camp sent her a grin, put out a hand.

"A lot you want to be forgiven—you or any man. Always right—that's what men think of themselves. Haven't got over the days when superior muscular development behind a sabre-toothed club settled the matter of woman's place in the cave. Men aren't civilized yet."

"Ouch—Zowie! Great little idea you've got of us poor devils. Aren't we good for a thing, Judy? Homely as sin but utilitarian, wouldn't you say? Without us what would the world do for steamships and bridges—and silk stockings? Tell me that?"

She gave her head a scornful shake. "Women would learn to build steamships, Mr. Know-It-All. Proved they had some slight capacity in a little war a while back."

"As for silk stockings—they're a relic of nose-rings or whatever it was cave ladies doted up the S. A. with when the world was young. Lot of women still fool themselves with the notion that only by male favor do they live and move and have their being. It's at the bottom of all their cheap little tricks and deceptions."

"You admit tricks and deceit!" His lips were laughing but his eyes were deep—shadowed and deep. "Hard on women, too, Judy." He drew the tip of his finger along her cheek, bored into the dimple at her chin.

"Women are learning, Kit Camp. The younger generation knows more about independence than their mothers did and the younger generation's children will go farther. There'll come a time when men will see what's what."

"And what would you have them see, fair maid? That they're a low order of being in a feminine world?"

"I only want equality!" Judy flung out fiercely.

"Is equality putting one far down and raising the other far up? You spoke most wistfully of 'S. A.' an instant ago, Judy, my dear. Doesn't it indicate some little apprehension of a thing—concession to its worth, maybe—when one hammers at it so? Natural to ignore what's of no consequence, wouldn't you say?"

"Look at it any way you like no one ever caught sight of your charming sex going Amazon. Oh, a few may do this—always odd ones. Besides," he added with a flash, "it's the ladies who get all in a stew about orange blossoms and whether to have a dining alcove or a sun room instead and is the yard big enough for Junior."

"Is that so? And the superior ones never go around with thoughts of dining alcoves oh, my no! 'House and garden,' she drawled mockingly. "Settle down up in Connecticut. Your own words, Mr. Christopher Camp."

"Yes," he answered through straightened lips, eyes suddenly grave. "Does that seem fantastic to you? I was born near the shore; brothers and sisters played where you heard the surf boom all day long. . . There was larkspur and delphinium in the garden and phlox and bleeding-heart. My great-grandmother planted and every generation tended. . . I want a place like that. Not back there—America is too wonderful—but somewhere near the sea. Get a land job—a fellow couldn't leave his wife while he roamed around. I believe in a home, Judy."

Anne W. Armstrong tells a little story which reveals the psychology of the southern mountaineer. When she was a child her father took one grim old mountaineer from Yancey county, North Carolina, to visit the finest house in town. The mountaineer gazed at everything without comment, but as they came away he remarked, "Won't no man where lives in a house as fine as that there ever go to heaven!"—Washington Star.

"JUDY" By Winifred Van Duzer

ON a cruise with her mother, Judith Archer, young school teacher, is attracted to Kit Camp, the ship's radio operator. Though pretty, Judy's charm is hidden by her eye-glasses and conservative style of dress. Visiting the Public Gardens, at Halifax, Judy hears shots as a scar-faced man dashes out of the shrubbery, followed by a dark, handsome man. Later, on board ship, Judy falls and breaks her glasses. Feeling a steady hand on her arm, she gazes into the laughing eyes of the handsome stranger of Public Gardens. He is Tristram Miller. Judy and Tris meet Kit, who gives Judy a piercing look. Tris tells Judy she is beautiful. As Tris denies knowledge of the Public Gardens quarrel, the scar-faced man peers in the window. Tris tells Judy it is his imagination. Next morning, Judy sees Kit with a girl and is jealous. Later, he tells Judy he had been waiting for her.

CHAPTER XVI.

"I NEEDED! I'll have you know I'm no sleepy-head, Mr. Kit Camp. I saw the sunrise—a corner of it—from my cabin, it being a free show and all." She was thinking of the amused way he bent down to listen when Evelyn Cary fluttered her lashes. Did he think her full of tricks as well—eager to parade them for him? High-handed—well, he'd soon see he wasn't dealing with an Evelyn Cary.

"So, unless you got any brand-new sights, Mr. Camp, I'll just be making myself comfortable with a book or such, the same being interesting as well as entertaining, and easily shut up should it become a bore." She tossed him a smile, saw the green eyes darken, shimmer with a hidden light. Very boyish, heart-shakingly winsome he looked as he stood there, muffled to the ears in a white wool sweater, rakish little beard drawn over his forehead, even teeth flashing in his slow grin.

"But there are new sights. Miss Spitfire Hi—mad? Ah—a great compliment, really—talk of this later, Judy; there is something you must see—switched with Doyle so I could show you. Put this on, it's windy where we're going."

He was all haste and energy, pulling at the orange scarf, thrusting a beret like the one he wore into her hands, sweeping her before him to the sun deck.

"Much chance you give me to say 'No,' she murmured half angrily, as she tried to catch the beret around her hair. It was too small, and had a panic of impatience because of his urging she drew the pins from the knot at her neck, let the dark, heavy waves cascade about her shoulders before twisting up the ends so she might put the cap on like a net.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25¢ today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store, Economy Drug Co., Johnson's Pharmacy, advt.

Anne W. Armstrong tells a little story which reveals the psychology of the southern mountaineer. When she was a child her father took one grim old mountaineer from Yancey county, North Carolina, to visit the finest house in town. The mountaineer gazed at everything without comment, but as they came away he remarked, "Won't no man where lives in a house as fine as that there ever go to heaven!"—Washington Star.

Wonderful Digestion

Snakes are said to have the greatest digestive powers of any creature. They swallow their food whole. Ducks, pigs, rabbits go down with feathers, bones, fur and all.
